PROBLEMS FOR LEGISLATORS

Some Difficulties in the Way of Revenue Law Revision.

MONEYS AND CREDITS A STUMBLING BLOCK

County Clerk Redfield Points Out That Difficulties Can Not Be Reached Except by Uniform Laws in All States.

OMAHA, Dec. 28.—To the Editor of The Bee: In the proposed revision of the revenue laws of this state by the coming legislature, no branch of the intraplate problem will deserve greater care or have more influence on the future development of Nebraska than the manner in which money and credits shall be treated for taxation. This question came up for discussion before the county commissioners and Supervisors' association recently held at Lincoln, and that body wisely concluded that it was a subject that should be dealt with by the legislature, in connection with a general revision and toning up of our revenue system. It cannot be denied that the man with cash assets or their equivalent has enjoyed an advantage in the matter of taxation over the owner of nearly every other species of property, and this is true, not only in Nebraska, but in every other state of the union. It is not because our system of government has been so constructed that the man with cash assets has been corrupted on this question, but results from the very nature of the commodity itself.
Money is a property which can easily be covered up and converted in various ways, and the value of debt can be manipulated to a much greater extent than the value of real property. This is the reason why the man with cash assets has enjoyed an advantage in the matter of taxation over the owner of nearly every other species of property, and this is true, not only in Nebraska, but in
